Military rites under the auspices of the Grayling Post American Legion were held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Sorenson Funeral Home for Clarence B. Protest Use Of Prison Labor

More work is the Conservation Department's answer to aggrieved employees of the Higgins Lake Nursery who are protesting the use of so-called "prison labor" in enlarging the nursery's facilities.

Employees are reported to be circulating petitions in an effort to halt the work of a crew from Camp Lehman corrections - conservation project which is helping to pull stumps and level land in an enlargement program which will expand the nursery to 45 acres from its present 30 acres.

Enlargement of the nursery's production of young pine trees will mean employment for more people, both in the nursery itself and in the department's increased planting program according to Gerald E. Eddy, State Conservation Director. Use of the Camp Lehman crew, Eddy points out, is making possible a larger nursery with money that is available.

The nursery, once the largest pine tree "factory" in the Nation, now produces approximately 18 million young pine trees per year.

There have been worker protests also about the use of chemical weed-killers and other labor-saving methods but Eddy points out that the department is responsible for reducing production costs wherever possible. The nursery has been operated since 1910.

Hearing Test Unit Scheduled Here

The new mobile hearing testing unit of the Michigan Association for Better Hearing, is now ready to go on tour of the state.

The unit, made possible by contributions of Michigan citizens to their local United Health and Welfare Fund campaigns, is designed to provide a quick, cheap method for discovering hearing problems among large citizen groups who do not suspect they have hearing troubles.

The general public may receive a two-minute hearing test, made by audiologist William K. Ickes. If the quick test indicates a problem, an appointment is made for a longer, more comprehensive test so that serious hearing trouble may be averted. This plan enables the unit to serve a large number of people in a short time and still provide more complete service to those who need it.

Facilities of the unit are provided without charge. Persons who know they have a hearing problem can also make arrangements for securing counseling and guidance services of the Association through the mobile unit. The mobile unit will be in Roscommon, Grayling, Gaylord, Charlevoix, Petoskey, Mackinaw City, Cheboygan and Rogers City between Oct. 27 and Nov. 7. Between Jan. 4 and 10, it will again visit the above named cities for comprehensive tests.

Phyllis Goss Wins State 4-H Club Conservation Demonstration Contest

Phyllis Goss of 609 Plum Street in Grayling was awarded first place in the 4-H Club Conservation Demonstration Contest at the State 4-H Club Show at Michigan State College.

Phyllis is a member of the Grayling 4-H Conservation Club which is led by Mr. Wesley Kumpula. Mr. Kumpula was Phyllis' coach for her demonstration and deserves a lot of credit for the fine work he has done.

The winning of this demonstration contest is an excellent example of what a young person can do if they really try hard enough. Up until a week before the State contest another girl was with Phyllis in the demonstration. But she was unable to go to the State show. Phyllis then revised the demonstration and put it on alone in competition with top demonstrations from all sections of the State.

Winning this contest is a real achievement and Crawford county can well be proud of Phyllis for the honor she has won.

The Grayling Branch had as their guests, a missionary family, Seventy F. Edward Butterworth, wife and three children. This family had been in the Islands among the natives of French Oceania. After six years, they returned to the United States. They were visiting Mrs. Butterworth's brother, Elder Meryl Howard of Frederic, Mich. While here the Missionaries showed slides of the Natives of the Islands, which included church activities, and their home life. It was all very interesting and beautiful. Elder Meryl Howard is a son-in-law of Elder Roy Newberry.

Elder Roy Newberry and family, John Turner and family; Mrs. Carl Olson and children all of Frederic; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Babbitt; and Glada Jensen of Grayling spent some of the time at "The Park of The Pipes" Reunion which was held during August 8-17. Mrs. John Turner and Perfect Example . . .

A short time ago the Office of Price Stabilization made some upward adjustments in the ceiling prices of certain lean cuts of pork. As a consequence, the prices charged consumers for these cuts rose a few cents a pound.

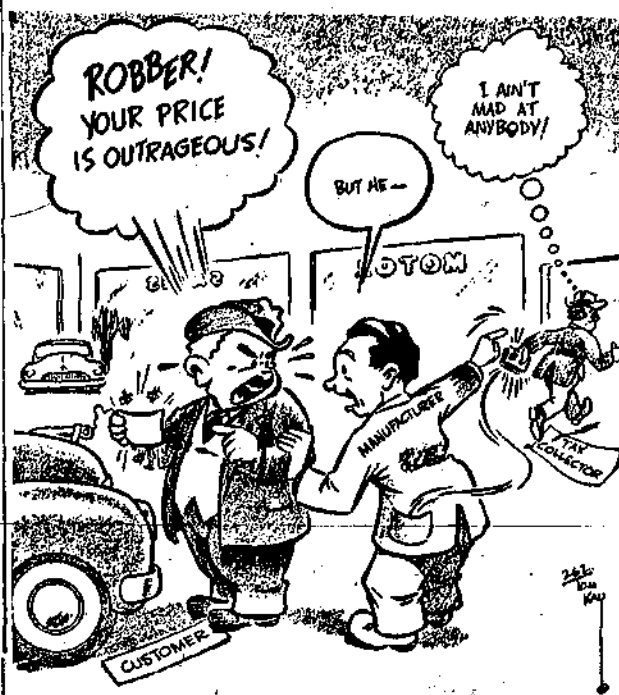

A good many people protested the increases, apparently feeling that they were unjustified and that the public was being gouged. Actually, however, the moderate change in the pork situation was a perfect example of how the natural law of supply and demand works.

During the summer pork production always goes downward. Fewer pigs are being marketed and they naturally sell at higher levels than when supplies are larger, as the packers try to get enough pork to fill orders. The result is that the price charged the consumer for some pork cuts, notably those which are most desirable, rises. The relationship between production and price has prevailed for many years.

Toward the end of September pork production starts to increase and then pork prices usually start to decline. And finally, near the end of November, production advances sharply and prices drop with equal sharpness.

This is the law of supply and demand in classical operation. And it is that law which makes sure that the consumer will be able to get the cuts of pork he wants when he wants them. It should be apparent to anyone that if prices were rigidly fixed at a low level the producers would soon stop raising pigs—and severe and extended shortages would follow. It's one thing to fix a price by political order—and a very different thing to make a man work hard and take risks when he sees no chance to make a decent profit.

 Warns Of Danger
 Of City Traffic

Chief John Papendick called attention today to the fact that passing cars on city streets with parked cars and frequent intersections can be exceedingly dangerous.

He said, "There are not many conditions which justify passing on a city street where parked cars only allow one moving lane of traffic in each direction. The speed limit on most city streets is 25 miles per hour. If the car ahead is going 20 miles per hour the difference in speed in only 5 miles per hour. To be able to go 5 miles per hour faster for a short trip will not save enough time to make it worth while to pass."

"Parked cars add a special hazard to passing, and hide pedestrians, especially children, who may thoughtlessly run out into the street. In many areas the block lengths are not long enough to permit passing before reaching the intersection," he added.

All motorists are urged to co-operate with the August traffic safety campaign under the leadership of State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler, and sponsored by the Michigan State Safety Commission.

The Chief suggested the following safety tips to help motorists who wish to pass with safety:

(1) Be sure that there is no car close behind you which may try to pass you as you pull out.

(2) Make sure that there is no car ahead of the car you are going to pass which might block you.

(3) Be certain that there is no oncoming car or, if there is one, that it is far enough away so that you have plenty of time to complete the maneuver.

(4) Assume yourself that there is no intersection, driveway or filling station from which a car could come and interfere with your passing maneuver.

(5) When you are certain of cars behind you and in front of you and of all entrances to the roadway then pass rather quickly so that you do not have to stay on the wrong side of the roadway very long. It is recommended that when highway conditions and the speed limit permit safe passing that you travel about 20 miles per hour faster than the car you are passing. Less than this will take you too long. More than this will make it harder for you to stop in time if an emergency develops.

Why Your Pay
Doesn't Stretch

What high Federal taxes and inflation are doing to family incomes in Michigan and other states was brought out today by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan.

Taking an average family of four (husband, wife and two children) as an example, the Research Council showed how today's family incomes at various levels compare with those earned in 1940 after Federal income taxes are deducted and due allowance is made to the reduced purchasing power of the dollar as the result of inflation. The study pointed out:

A family in the $3,000 net income group today has $2,866.80 for living expenses after Federal income taxes. This has a purchasing power of $1,516.40 in 1940 dollars. But in 1940 this family had the use of all its $3,000 income.

A $4,000 family today has $3,644.80 left after taxes. This has a purchasing power of $1,931.74 in 1940 dollars. But in 1940 this family had $3,984.80 in 100-cent dollars after taxes.

As for the $5,000-family today, it has left $4,422.80 after Federal taxes. But this income is worth only $2,344.08 in 1940 purchasing power. In 1940, however, this family had $4,925.20 after Federal income taxes.

A $10,000 family today has $8,226.40 after taxes. But its purchasing power is $4,435.9 in 1940 dollars. In 1940 this family had $8,460 after taxes.

The $100,000 family has $43,868 after Federal income taxes today and this income has the purchasing power of only $23,303.04 in 1940 dollars. But in 1940 this family had $37,051.60 after taxes.

Looking at the picture another way, the Research Council brought out these additional facts with due allowance for taxes and inflation:

A family of four today must earn a net income of $4,165 to equal a 1940 income of $2,000.

A $3,000 income earned in 1940 compares with $6,595 earned today.

A $4,000 income earned in 1940 compares with $9,010 today.

A family which earned $5,000 in 1940 must show a net income of $11,480 today to maintain the same standard of living.

Letters To The Editor

Sept. 2, 1952

Dear Editor:

Big guns directly across the road from the home of John Stephan shattered front windows, broke flower pots and china, loosened bricks in chimney and plaster trickled from around window casings.

John, who was working in his shop 40 yards further back from the house was startled by an unusually terrific explosion as his outboard motor which was standing on his work bench jumped from the corner on which it was leaning and was toppling to the concrete floor of the shop. John managed to grab it in time to save it however.

He was working on an expensive fly rod at the time and his quick action to save the motor took his hands from the exact spot where a 10-pound piece of railroad rail fell from a cupboard where it had been placed to hold down some sandpaper to keep it from curling up. The piece of rail did fall on the fish rod breaking the mid section, paint cans and cans of nails were thrown from the shelf and tools scattered about.

John says he can't understand why it is either reasonable or necessary for these heavy guns to be used so close to his home as the military controlled lands extend about 12 miles north from his home and this range is almost as many miles wide. When maneuvers first started across from his place he was told by officers in charge that nothing larger than 50 cal. machine gun would be used near his home. Now 3-inch and larger guns are fired directly opposite the buildings.

At the time this damage was done to his home he was told by Capt. Hargren that an investigation would be made and that a division officer would come out to his place to see what damage had been done but nobody showed up and John is wondering how he can collect damages.

He says that he don't believe his buildings will stand another beating such as happened this summer. When it was necessary to pick up from the floor every day that firing went on all kinds of household articles which were thrown to the floor by these heavy blasts. John says he believes that an agreement had been made when the National Guard took control of this tract of land that they would confine their activities to beyond one mile back from the Town line road but if this is so they have not lived up to the agreement.

John says that he believes the firing is being deliberately done to force him from his home which represents his life savings.
